WARRIORS OPPOSE MOORHEAD IN FIRST GAME OF REGIONAL

BRAINERD WINS DISTRICT BY 19-18 WIN OVER CROSBY-IRONTON

SPUDS ENTER REGIONAL TOURNEY HERE THURSDAY THE FAVORITE

The All District Basketball section is announced today on the sport page. Turn to page 3 for this and other interesting stories of tournament basketball and other sports.

Brainerd's high school Warriors nosed out a deserved victory over Crosby-Ironton, 19 to 18, winning the 25th district cage championship and today look forward to their clash with Moorhead in the first game of the Sixth Regional Tournament which opens here Thursday evening.

The Spuds enter the regional favorites by reason of their former season records and state championships.

Moorhead found little competition in its district this year and as such will be in the best of condition for the regional combat.

The Warriors were forced to fight two strenuous battles in the district. Staples and Crosby-Ironton, but these battles are expected to key them to the position where they will be capable of giving the Spuds more than they bargain for.

The game with Moorhead will settle a long time controversy in this city as to the relative strength of Brainerd and the district with top-notchers in high school basketball of the state.

Followers of the sport who have the Brainerd high school team at heart like to believe, and are firm in their contention, that Brainerd and Crosby-Ironton teams are of no inferior calibre to headliners in more prominent districts in the state.

The Warriors will play an inspired game with Moorhead to gain a prestige which is rightfully due them. If they can successfully stop the Spuds they automatically enter the final game as favorites.

Winners from this district have in past seasons failed to come through in the regional.

It is the consensus of opinion that one reason is that other district champions have not been forced to fight as hard to gain their district honors.

Championship of the 25th district means, as has been shown here in the past, gruelling battles with a nerve shattering finals to top it.

Crosby-Ironton, winners last year, could not give their best efforts in attempting a regional championship, partially for the reason that the time elapsing between the tournaments was not sufficient to enable them to rebuild their condition.

It was a similar fate with Brainerd three seasons ago. The team went to Alexandria, fought like demons in the first game and then by sheer dog tiredness could not match the strength of Appleton.

Coch Bill Dammann has produced a stronger team than has ever trotted out on a Brainerd basketball court. He has instilled in the minds of his players fair play and has rounded their bodies through skilled appliances of athletic rules into a team capable of going through severe contests non-injurious to their systems.

Coch Dammann further has given the city a team that plays the game with sportsmanship the first consideration. He has given the boys confidence and his greatness as a team builder, master mind and specialist of team work and systemized play has been very successfully demonstrated. It was the same story Saturday night. It can be told with jubilation by Brainerd fans and with a note of sadness by Crosby-Ironton.

Each of the five past years, Brainerd and Crosby has met in the final struggle of the district tournament. In four of these years Crosby-Ironton has made the grade. The other year went to Brainerd.

In all of these contests the game has ended in a nip and tuck scrap with a basket or free throw settling it. Two of the games went into overtime play.

Crosby-Ironton's desperate rally in the second half of Saturday's final to overcome a seven point lead was typical of the bulldog fighting spirit of the Rangers.

The Rangers found it impossible to break through the stonewall defense of the Brainerd team in the first half. They dropped in only one field goal in this time while Brainerd rung up three field goals and three free throws.

Brainerd was only behind at one time of the game, that in the opening minute of play. From then on Brainerd kept in the lead but the Rangers

Negro Lad of Five Crashes White House; Bored with Exploit

Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—A five-year-old negro boy is being groomed as the successor to One-eyed Connolly, gate crasher extraordinary.

Connolly never crashed the White House—to the best of the attendants' knowledge—but yesterday Herbert Jefferson, small, dusky and a born explorer, did just that.

Herbert spent some little time inspecting the spacious grounds with the calm eye of a connoisseur, then strolled through the main entrance of the White House to see what was inside. He was busy finding out when the White House police caught up with him.

Arriving home with a uniformed escort, he promptly fell asleep, bored with the insufficiency of the exploit.

ROBBERY SUSPECT SLAYS TWO THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

SHERIFF ATTEMPTS TO ARREST FRIEND, SHOT WITHOUT A WARNING, DEPUTY HURT

BANK ROBBERY SUSPECT THEN TURNS GUN ON HIS BROTHER AND KILLS SELF

Monticello, Ind., March 16.—(U.P.)—Life-long friendship between Sheriff Ray Fisher, 40, of White county and Scott Talbutt, farmer, ended tragically Sunday when Talbutt killed Fisher, wounded a deputy, killed his own brother, then committed suicide rather than be arrested for bank robbery.

Talbutt, 43, fired upon Fisher without warning when the sheriff and his deputy, Barney Ireland, went to the Talbutt farm to serve a warrant issued in Tippecanoe county against Talbutt and his brother, William, 34.

The warrant charged that the brothers participated on Feb. 6 in holding up the Battle Ground bank and stealing $14,400.

Sheriff Fisher had delayed arresting the Talbuts for several days, insisting to officers of the neighboring county he believed them innocent. Scott Talbutt and he had been friends for years. Talbutt supported him when Fisher ran for sheriff.

Officials of the Battle Ground bank visited the Talbutt farm on an inventory errand last Friday. Later they identified the brothers as the bandits.

The warrant was sent to Fisher to serve as the Talbutt farm is just inside the line in this county.

When Fisher asked Ireland to accompany him he told the deputy it was unnecessary to take a gun as he "knew" the brothers would not resist.

At the farm, the sheriff was reading the warrant to William Talbutt when Scott stepped suddenly from a corn crib and opened fire with a shot, killing Fisher instantly. Ireland, unarmed, ran. A bullet ripped through his hand as he dodged across a field to summon aid.

When posses surrounded the farm later they found the bodies of both the Talbuts in the house. Scott apparently had shot his brother, then committed suicide and fallen across William's body.

Sheriff Fisher was a world war veteran. He leaves his wife and two children. William Talbutt leaves his wife. Scott was unmarried.

Sewage Disposal Bill Drafting Near Ready

St. Paul, March 16.—(U.P.)—Sponsors of legislation to stop pollution of the Mississippi river today were reported to have nearly completed drafting of a compromise bill for introduction in the state legislature.

Various sewage disposal plans advanced by civic groups from Minneapolis, St. Paul and South St. Paul are expected to be incorporated in the measure. The bill is expected to be reported soon to the house by the metropolitan sewage disposal committee.

All problems in connection with the question, including cost allocation, location of disposal plants, administration and maintenance, will be met in the forthcoming bill, it was reported.

Union Pacific to Expand, Spend Seventy Million

Omaha, March 16.—(U.P.)—Expenditures of $70,000,000, which is about the average, for new work and maintenance of way in 1931 was announced today by President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific system.

Of the total $33,000,000 is for maintenance of equipment. Maintenance of way including new buildings, tunnels and bridges, calls for expenditure of $27,000,000. The capital expenditure budget for new works is $10,200,000.

'Suicide Club' Off on First Leg of Pole Trip; Wilkins' Party Disaster Predicted

MODERN SUBMARINE NOT ICE-BREAKER, STRAIN TOO GREAT

'NAUTILUS' PROCEEDS TO THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD FOR FINAL PREPARATIONS

TINY CRAFT TO HEAD INTO ICE PACK OFF SPITSBERGEN; START FROM LONDON

London, Mar. 16.—(U.P.)—The "suicide club" is the name given Sir Hubert Wilkins' forthcoming submarine expedition to the north pole, by submarine experts at the British admiralty.

A canvass of opinion among the submarine constructors and officers of the submarine section of the British admiralty, reveals that they are of the unanimous opinion that even a modern submarine cannot be reconstructed to act as an ice-breaker. A submarine is too frail to carry engines strong enough for this work, these experts declare.

Although admitting that a drill can be operated from within the submarine, it is pointed out that the hole bored will not be large enough to permit the volume of fresh air required.

The submarine will be able to remain under water only 24 hours, if she travels at a maximum speed of three knots. At the end of this period she would have to come to the surface to recharge her batteries, for which her Diesel engines would be required, and they in turn require fresh air.

Even supposing, these experts point out, that the members of Wilkins' expedition could bore a hole sufficiently large enough for the vessel to rise to the surface, she is almost certain to be frozen in the ice. In addition to this, her hydroplanes, without which the vessel would be unable to dive, would be either frozen or damaged, as they project outside the hull.

In the event of the expedition being fortunate enough to escape these calamities, these pessimistic experts declare that the valves controlling the flooding of the diving tanks, and other delicate parts of this mechanism certainly would freeze and bring disaster to the expedition.

Camden, N. J., March 16.—(U.P.)—

Sir Hubert Wilkins and his crew of adventurers in a submarine shoved off today on the first leg of its trip to the ice floes of the Arctic seas.

The queer looking craft, with its long steel runners showing above the body, will proceed to the Brooklyn navy yard where final preparations will be made for the journey which will send the former naval submarine under the northern ice pack.

There was no ceremony as the boat left dock. Sir Hubert and Commander Sloan Damenhower, the ship's skipper, both are anxious to reach the Arctic in time to take advantage of the summer light and thaw.

The tiny craft already has cost close to $500,000 during conversion from a ship of war to a ship of science. This figure will be greatly increased.

At Providence, the Nautilus will be christened formally by Jean Jules Verne, grandson of the man who wrote "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," from which Wilkins chose the name of his boat.

The actual start on the Arctic trip will be made from London, Wilkins announced. From there they will proceed to Spitsbergen. From there the tiny craft will head into the ice pack.

Fire Takes Two Lives, Levels Business Blocks, Doing $100,000 Damage

Bagnell, Mo., March 16.—(U.P.)—Two men died in a fire that swept Bagnell today, leveling two blocks of business and hotel buildings with property loss of more than $100,000.

Bodies of Jess Brown, 45, a laborer, and an unidentified man were recovered from the ruins.

Shipstead Gets Better Quarters as Losing Senators Vacate Seats

Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—Moving day is over for ten United States senators who are more or less freshmen.

Moving day comes every two years. Electoral and other casualties vacate offices desired by juniors in the senate.

In the moves just completed Senator Shipstead, Minnesota, one of the last remaining of the former tenants, advanced to upper floors and sunnier rooms.

JOLIET PRISON RIOT

Rioting broke out Saturday in the old penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., threatening for a time to result in a wholesale prison delivery of 1,200 rioting convicts. One convict died under the fire of the guards and three others were wounded. Photo shows a section of the kitchen.

Defends 'Boy Friend' of Parked Car Holdup in Police Investigation

Chicago, March 16.—(U.P.)—Webster defines chivalry as something distinctly applicable to knights, gallant warriors and brave gentlemen—but Webster didn't know Miss Dorothy De Riemer or he might not have been so specific.

Miss De Riemer reported to police she had been held up while sitting in a parked automobile with a "young gentleman friend." Her diamond ring, worth $450, and her wrist watch, valued at $50, were taken.

"And who was the boy with you?" asked the police sergeant. "I won't tell," answered Miss De Riemer. "He was just an innocent witness. I can not allow his name to be involved."

PRISON RIOT TOLL INCREASES TODAY, NEW PLOT LEARNED

PRISONERS PUNISHED FOR PARTS IN REBELLION; 43 GET SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

PRISON OUTBREAK PREVENTED BY DISCOVERY OF SAWS IN CELL BLOCK

Joliet, Ill., March 16.—(U.P.)—An air of terrible expectancy, laden with the submerged emotions of fears, anger and rebellion, hung today over the state prison where two convicts were killed and several wounded Saturday in a riotous outbreak.

The 43 men who led the rioting were in solitary confinement. The 1,100 convicts who followed their leader and aided in wrecking the mess hall and furniture shops were kept in their cells. Six hundred prisoners who did not join the riot suffered curtailment of privileges.

George Jakowanis, 24, who was shot in the stomach and head during the rioting, died early today in the prison bringing the death toll to two. He was serving one to 20 years on robbery charges from Chicago.

"There will be no recurrence of the riot while we have the men confined," said Warden Henry C. Hill, "but who can say what will happen when they are given their usual privileges?"

As special guards paced beats outside the prison walls and others stood ready upon a moment's warning to man the newly-installed machine guns, curses, jeers and cat-calls were heard from the cells Sunday.

Joliet, Ill., March 16.—(U.P.)—Frustration of an escape plot at the new Stateville penitentiary was reported today by prison officials when they announced discovery of six saws in one block and the interception of a code message arranging the break.

The report was made by Deputy Warden Frank Kneiss, head of the Stateville prison, as a committee of legislators investigated conditions at the old prison after the riot Saturday in which two convicts were killed while 1,200 others wrecked the mess hall and furniture factory. The escape was set for last Saturday, Kneiss said, at the same time the riot occurred in the old prison.

The legislators heard the testimony of a convict that Chaplain George Whitmeyer, who announced his resignation yesterday, had bargained with prisoners to plan their escape.

Meanwhile, unrest continued among the convicts. Confined to their cells on a bread and coffee diet, they yelled at the guards from time to time. Forty-three of the prisoners were in solitary confinement as a result of the riot.

The number of guards at the Stateville prison was doubled Saturday to forestall a possible uprising, Deputy Warden Kneiss revealed.

He said the plot involved a number of prisoners who planned to obtain transfers to the hospital detail, using the saws that had been smuggled into their cells, to cut their way to freedom through the barred windows of the hospital.

The intercepted message disclosed that the prisoners were to be outside the prison walls, Kneiss said.

COURT UPHOLDS GASOLINE TAX

Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—The right of states to impose a tax on gasoline for highway purposes and collect it on fuel purchased for uses other than the operation of vehicles on the public highways, was upheld today by the United States supreme court.

The decision was handed down in an appeal brought by the George E. Breese Lumber company, Albuquerque, N. M., against the state of New Mexico. The company contended that it was not obliged to pay the five-cent per gallon tax on gasoline which it brought into the state for use in machinery used in its logging operations.

The lower court had upheld the tax.

SHIP ON ATLANTIC BURNS; EXPLOSION BRINGS DISASTER

HALF OF CREW UNACCOUNTED FOR; MANY KILLED, SOME ADRIFT ON ICE

MAINED BODIES BROUGHT TO SHORE ON HORSE ISLAND; 140 IN SHIP'S CREW

St. Johns, N. F., March 16.—(U.P.)—The sealing steamer Viking was torn apart by an explosion Saturday night off Horse Island, on the northeastern coast of Newfoundland, advisers received here said today.

Capt. Abraham Kean, Jr., and approximately 140 men, including Varick Frissell, New York explorer, were aboard. Many of the crew were killed by the explosion.

Half of the crew was unaccounted for at noon today and many of them were presumed to be adrift on floating ice cakes. Others were drowned in the scramble to get off the sinking ship. The origin of the blast was not known, but was attributed to the explosion of a boiler.

Several maimed bodies were brought ashore at Horse Island today, their condition bearing witness to the terrific force of the explosion.

Menger advised said residents of Horse Island heard the explosion and saw the ship in flames. They also reported seeing drift ice with human figures clinging to it.

In addition to Frissell, who has been working on motion pictures of sealing in the north, Harry Sargeant and R. Penrod, of New York, were also believed to have been aboard.

Hollywood, Calif., March 16.—(U.P.)—Varick Frissell, listed among persons aboard a sealing vessel, believed to have met with disaster off Newfoundland, was prominent in Hollywood as an independent producer.

It was learned at the studios today that Frissell said to be a nephew of Gov. Gifford Pinchott of Pennsylvania, left Hollywood a month ago for the east.

It was said here that Frissell was prominent at Yale and was graduated in the class of 1926.

He entered the motion picture field and filmed a picture called "White Thunder," a story of adventure in the sealing country of the north. The production was shown to a number of producers here and Frissell was said to have decided to take additional scenes in the north. The producer's grandfather, it was said here, is president of the Fifth Avenue National Bank, New York, and his father is a prominent New York physician.

ASSERT DEPRESSION IS RESULT OF DISHONESTY

Fort Myers, Fla., March 16.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and Harvey Firestone agree that prohibition is a good thing, that working men should be able to create jobs for themselves, and that the alleged depression is the result of dishonesty.

The trio met over the week end for the first time in more than a year, made a tour of inspection of the Edison laboratory yesterday, and renewed their praises of Edison's work.

They agreed entirely with Ford's sentiments, expressed in a published interview, in which he said that "dishonesty is the cause of the so-called depression; honesty is the only cure." He did not explain the statement.

"Hard times will do the people good if it teaches them the lesson of honesty," Ford said. "However, do not admit that these are hard times. They are good times, but the people do not realize it."

He praised President Hoover, spoke of the Wickersham report as "dry, and that's all I care about it," recommended less government interference with business, and no public ownership of public utilities. He said he believed his acquaintances among the "big men in electric utilities" were "sincere in giving the people service."

Pawnshop Bandit Dies; Accomplice Faces Jail

St. Paul, March 16.—(U.P.)—Cliff Lawrence, 24, who was wounded ten days ago while attempting to hold up a pawnshop, died last night. His accomplice, Homer Bernier, will be arraigned in court tomorrow.

The two were arrested after Louis Lazarus fired at them when they help us his shop. Lazarus freed his hands which the pair had tied and ran after them firing as he went.

Lawrence served a term for using an automobile without the owner's permission in the St. Cloud reformatory, police said.

Representative Aswell Dies
Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—Rep. James Benjamin Aswell, Dem., La., member of the house agriculture committee, died of heart trouble at his apartment here.

As special guards paced beats outside the prison walls and others stood ready upon a moment's warning to man the newly-installed machine guns, curses, yells and cat-calls were heard from the cells Sunday.

Joliet, Ill., March 16.—(U.P.)—Frustration of an escape plot at the new Stateville penitentiary was reported today by prison officials when they announced discovery of six saws in one block and the interception of a code message arranging the break.

The report was made by Deputy Warden Frank Kneess, head of the Stateville prison, as a committee of legislators investigated conditions at the old prison after the riot Saturday in which two convicts were killed while 1,200 others wrecked the mess hall and furniture factory. The escape was set for last Saturday, Kneess said, at the same time the riot occurred in the old prison.

The legislators heard the testimony of a convict that Chaplain George Whitmeyer, who announced his resignation yesterday, had bargained with prisoners to plan their escape.

Meanwhile, unrest continued among the convicts. Confined to their cells on a bread and coffee diet, they yelled at the guards from time to time. Forty-three of the prisoners were in solitary confinement as a result of the riot.

The number of guards at the Stateville prison was doubled Saturday to forestall a possible uprising, Deputy Warden Kneess revealed.

He said the plot involved a number of prisoners who planned to obtain transfers to the hospital detail, using the saws that had been smuggled into their cells, to cut their way to freedom through the barred windows of the hospital.

The intercepted message disclosed that the prisoners were to be outside the prison walls, Kneess said.

COURT UPHOLDS GASOLINE TAX

Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—The right of states to impose a tax on gasoline for highway purposes and collect it on fuel purchased for use other than the operation of vehicles on the public highways, was upheld today by the United States supreme court.

The decision was handed down in an appeal brought by the George E. Breece Lumber company, Albuquerque, N. M., against the state of New Mexico. The company contended that it was not obliged to pay the five-cent per gallon tax on gasoline which it brought into the state for use in machinery used in its logging operations.

The lower court had upheld the tax.

SHIP ON ATLANTIC BURNS; EXPLOSION BRINGS DISASTER

HALF OF CREW UNACCOUNTED FOR; MANY KILLED, SOME ADRIFT ON ICE

MAIMED BODIES BROUGHT TO SHORE ON HORSE ISLAND; 140 IN SHIP'S CREW

St. Johns, N. F., March 16.—(U.P.)—The sealing steamer Viking was torn apart by an explosion Saturday night off Horse Island, on the northeastern coast of Newfoundland, advices received here said today.

Capt. Abraham Kean, Jr., and approximately 140 men, including Varick Frissell, New York explorer, were aboard. Many of the crew were killed by the explosion.

Half of the crew was unaccounted for at noon today and many of them were presumed to be adrift on floating ice cakes. Others were drowned in the scramble to get off the sinking ship. The origin of the blast was not known, but was attributed to the explosion of a boiler.

Several maimed bodies were brought ashore at Horse Island today, their condition bearing witness to the terrific force of the explosion.

Meager advices said residents of Horse Island heard the explosion and saw the ship in flames. They also reported seeing drift ice with human figures clinging to it.

In addition to Frissell, who has been working on motion pictures of sealing in the north, Harry Sargeant and R. Penrod, of New York, were also believed to have been aboard.

Hollywood, Calif., March 16.—(U.P.)—Varick Frissell, listed among persons aboard a sealing vessel, believed to have met with disaster off Newfoundland, was prominent in Hollywood as an independent producer.

It was learned at the studios today that Frissell, said to be a nephew of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, left Hollywood a month ago for the east.

It was said here that Frissell was prominent at Yale and was graduated in the class of 1926.

He entered the motion picture field and filmed a picture called "White Thunder," a story of adventure in the sealing country of the north. The production was shown to a number of producers here and Frissell was said to have decided to take additional scenes in the north. The producer's grandfather, it was said here, is president of the Fifth Avenue National Bank, New York, and his father is a prominent New York physician.

ASSERT DEPRESSION IS RESULT OF DISHONESTY

Fort Myers, Fla., March 16.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and Harvey Firestone agree that prohibition is a good thing, that working men should be able to create jobs for themselves, and that the alleged depression is the result of dishonesty.

The trio met over the week end for the first time in more than a year, made a tour of inspection of the Edison laboratory yesterday, and renewed their praises of Edison's work.

They agreed entirely with Ford's sentiments, expressed in a published interview, in which he said that "dishonesty is the cause of the so-called depression; honesty is the only cure." He did not explain the statement.

"Hard times will do the people good if it teaches them the lesson of honesty," Ford said. "However, do not admit that these are hard times. They are good times, but the people do not realize it."

He praised President Hoover, spoke of the Wickham report as "dry," and that's all I care about it," recommended less government interference with business, and no public ownership of public utilities. He said he believed his acquaintances among the "big men in electric utilities" were "sincere in giving the people service."

Pawnshop Bandit Dies; Accomplice Faces Jail

St. Paul, March 16.—(U.P.)—Cliff Lawrence, 24, who was wounded ten days ago while attempting to hold up a pawnshop, died last night. His accomplice, Homer Bernier, will be arraigned in court tomorrow.

The two were arrested after Louis Lazarus fired at them when they help us his shop. Lazarus freed his hands which the pair had tied and ran after them firing as he went.

Lawrence served a term for using an automobile without the owner's permission in the St. Cloud reformatory, police said.

Representative Aswell Dies

persistently shortened the gap. At one time Brainerd held an eight point margin.

Perpich who in previous games of the tournament with Wadena and Aitkin got away with murder from the sleeper position inside the opposing team's defense, was bottled out, put in storage by Marshall whose game Saturday night further established him as the outstanding guard of the tournament.

Perpich, seeing his predicament, didn't like it in the least with the result that in the first quarter he had fouled Marshall three times. It was even more aggravating when Marshall sunk all of the free throws.

Perpich, the hope of C-I. throughout the remainder of the game was at a decided handicap. One more personal and he would have been sent to the bench and the quintet would have been badly crippled. Fear of the fourth personal kept Perpich from forcing the play. He remained quiet for the remainder of the game, allowing others to take the offensive.

There could only have been one outstanding instruction Coach Wock gave his boys at the half when they came to the dressing room. The situation was black. Brainerd was in the lead 9 to 2.

"Go in there and fight. Try for short shots in the first few minutes of play and if you're not getting anywhere pepper the basket from any angle and see that you shoot straight," Wock told his men.

The Rangers followed their coach's instructions. They charged the net but failed to make progress. Even worse, the margin was increasing, 14 to 6. Then Dobervich lifted the ball high in the air from long range. It found the basket. He got the ball again and repeated. And then Olson tried his luck. It was with him. The score was 16 to 12 at the close of the third.

The fourth quarter was a bedlam with the ball flying at the basket from all angles of the floor and Brainerd trying to hold the lead.

In the last 30 seconds of play the Brainerd boys maneuvered around the floor in a stall game and came through holding their one point lead.

Brainerd won the game on free throws, four by Vern Marshall and one by Bob Wycle. The team caged seven goals from the field. Crosby-Ironton went the hometowners one better, but only netted two free throws.

Crosby-Ironton however was lacking on shooting. They had more tries at the cage than their rivals.

The Rangers must regret that time out which penalized them and enabled Marshall to sink the free throw.

Every man on the Brainerd team contributed to its scoring power. Gerry Wycle's height came in handy in the Crosby-Ironton defense zone and worked as a pivot for the majority of plays in the scoring position. The two centers, Wycle and Perpich broke even on getting the jump.

Schuetz again proved himself indispensable to the success of the team by playing brilliant defense and offense. His speed contributed largely to take the Rangers off their guard and prevented them on many times from getting set. He also found the hoop for two baskets.

Neither Elmer Foster or Bob Wycle got the number of baskets they naturally demand. The rangers watched them like hawks. Foster however broke away on two occasions to score and both fed other members of the team when they were in better positions to shoot.

The play by play account of the game follows:

First Quarter
Crosby-Ironton got the tipoff but Brainerd recovered before they could shoot. Marshall took the first shot of the game. It missed. Perpich, coming under the basket fouled Marshall who scored the free throw Marshall was called for pushing and Perpich missed.

Perpich fouled the hoop on an overhead shot under the basket. Trying for another basket he again fouled Marshall who scored the free throw. A little while later he again fouled Marshall and the latter made it 100 per cent in free throws. The teams continued the fast pace throughout the quarter without scoring. The quarter ended with Brainerd leading 2 to 2.

Second Quarter
Schuetz started the fireworks in the second quarter by dribbling the length of the floor and passing to Gerry Wycle who scored from the center position. Wock sent Keeler in for Petrabor and Monkkonen in for Zauhar. Gerry Wycle scored again on another pass from Schuetz. On a three way combination, Marshall to Gerry Wycle to Schuetz, the latter scored from inside the C-I defense. Crosby took time out and Petrabor went back in for Keeler. The half saw Brainerd leading 9 to 2.

Third Quarter
Elmer Foster scored on a rebound shot of Bob Wycle's. Marshall was fouled for pushing Perpich who missed. Zauhar scored on a rebound and a few seconds later repeated bringing the score up to 11 to 6. Bob Wycle was called for charging, Olson missing. Petrabor blocked Bob Wycle and the latter made one out of two free throws. Dobervich missed a free throw, scored on a pass out from the defense zone by Gerry Wycle, making the score 14 to 6. Crosby took time out. On resuming play Dobervich scored a long shot and Schuetz took a pass from Marshall and scored. Dobervich again found the hoop on a long shot; and Olson dropped in one from outside the Brainerd defense. Score, Brainerd 16, Crosby, 12.

Fourth Quarter
Dobervich missed a free throw, Foster being called. Dobervich scored one and missed one on his next free throw tries, Bob Wycle being charged with holding. Foster dribbled through and scored under the basket making the score 18 to 13. Crosby took time out and Brainerd was given a free throw, Marshall scoring the technical. Olson sunk a free throw, Gerry being charged with holding. Dobervich scored from the side. Perpich missed two free throws, Schuetz being called for holding. Zauhar scored under the basket. Brainerd got the ball and held it until the final gun.

Pairings in the opening games of the Sixth Regional high school basketball tournament were announced here today by W. C. Cobb, local manager, following a conference with the regional committee.

Moorhead and Brainerd, winners of the 24th and 25th district respectively, are slated to battle in the initial struggle at 8 p. m. Thursday, March 19 to be followed at 9:15 by Campbell and Glenwood, champions of District 22 and 23 respectively.

The championship tilt will commence at 9:15 p. m. Friday preceded by a consolation game of the two losers in the previous evening games.

Interest Centers Here
St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—Minnesota's high school basketball teams today started down the home stretch of intensive practice sessions which will end with the state championship tournament at the University of Minnesota field house next week.

The entry list for the state meet will be completed this week in regional tournaments at Brainerd, Thief River Falls, Mankato and South St. Paul. Championship teams for the other four regions were decided last week, three of them Saturday night.

While the teams entered in this week's regional tournaments were going through long practice periods, the regional champions already selected rested today after this long campaign.

Interest in the tournament schedule this week centers at Brainerd where Moorhead will attempt to win its eighth straight regional title. Moorhead has won 18 straight games this year, but is expected to meet tough opposition in Brainerd.

Bemidji is ranked the favorite to cop the title at Thief River Falls, while Fairmont is believed to have the strongest team entered in the Mankato meet.

Four strong aggregations, St. Paul Central, New Prague, Stillwater and Northfield, are entered in the South St. Paul tournament.

Final round scores of district and regional tournament games played Saturday night included:

Region 3 at Marshall—Glencoe 27, Balaton 5.

Region 5 at Litchfield—Buffalo 25, Hopkins 24.

Region 7 at Virginia—Chisholm 25, Duluth Denfield 13.

District 6 at Mankato—Mankato 22, Mapleton 3.

District 8 at Luverne—Luverne 22, Worthington 7.

District 13 at St. Peter—New Prague 20, Montgomery 17.

District 22 at Morris—Campbell 15, Elbow Lake 10.

District 25 at Brainerd—Brainerd 19, Crosby-Ironton 18.

District 21 at Ada—Mahnommen 23, Twin Valley 15.

The gun finally cracked Saturday night so that's that as far as this district is concerned! If Bill Dammann's boys can make that defense work as well against Moorhead as it did against C-I and Little Falls, Moorhead will only score about one field goal in the first half and may forget all about entering the state tourney.

It is reported (and we got it pretty straight) that Coach Wock of C-I regarded his present team as the greatest he has coached during his tenure of office at the range school. He had four of last year's tournament men back this year. We agree with him—it was a great team!

That just makes the work of Bill Dammann look all the better. Bill had one man from last year's tournament squad to start with and it was the first year of basketball for the two Wycle brothers. Yet Dammann has moulded the greatest team that has represented Brainerd for several years. His team is a real tribute to his work.

We heard that a fellow told his wife the other night that he was going to leave if the contest ran into an overtime. That gives us a real laugh. In the first place he wouldn't have gone from that gym—no, wild horses couldn't have taken him away until a victor was named. And in the second place he couldn't have worked his way through that hooting mob to the door if he had wanted to.

The nicest thing about Brainerd's ball club is that the five men work as a single unit. There are no stars that completely overshadow players of lesser importance—there are no players of lesser importance! Every man has to click—and how they click! There is a certain amount of work for each to do. It matters not who makes the baskets—just so they are made! That makes a real fighting ball club!

It would be hard to find a high school team that presents a better array of long shot artists than Crosby-Ironton. Staples and Aitkin are pretty good at hitting the net from a distance too, but they don't have the deadly certainty that Olson, Dobravich and Zauhar possess.

Well, honors are even now as far as district championships are concerned. The score is tied at three for Crosby-Ironton and Brainerd. And we haven't forgotten the year that Pine River upset all the dope and crashed through for a title. And then there is the time that Staples should have won but met a little tough luck.

It would be hard to find a district where competition is more keen year after year. C-I, Brainerd, Aitkin, Staples and Little Falls seem to be in the habit of turning out good teams. And then there are the dark horses from Pine River and Wadena.

But what makes it truly exciting is that the season's record seems to play no part in doping a team's tournament play. Sometimes those who have been winning all season topple early while the so-called weaker teams turn the tourney into a topsy-turvy mad scramble. Oh well, it's a lot of fun anyway.

And now Brainerd people are beginning to buzz over the comparative records of Campbell, Glenwood and Moorhead. From all indications Thursday and Friday nights will be mere replicas of the wild enthusiasm that reigned here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Broadway Cafe got right in the spirit of things after the final game Saturday night and feted Coach Dammann and his victorious team to some very nice steak dinners.

And of course the high school took enough time this morning to laud the district champs. The high spot of the program came when Captain "Nate" Schuetz presented Miss Tornstrom with the victory trophy. The session also proved that the players perform better on the playing floor than on the speakers platform. A little "pep" session was in order and showed that the

Well, honors are even now as far as district championships are concerned. The score is tied at three for Crosby-Ironton and Brainerd. And we haven't forgotten the year that Pine River upset all the dope and crashed through for a title. And then there is the time that Staples should have won but met a little tough luck.

It would be hard to find a district where competition is more keen year after year. C-I, Brainerd, Aitkin, Staples and Little Falls seem to be in the habit of turning out good teams. And then there are the dark horses from Pine River and Wadena.

But what makes it truly exciting is that the season's record seems to play no part in doping a team's tournament play. Sometimes those who have been winning all season topple early while the so-called weaker teams turn the tourney into a topsy-turvy mad scramble. Oh well, it's a lot of fun anyway.

And now Brainerd people are beginning to buzz over the comparative records of Campbell, Glenwood and Moorhead. From all indications Thursday and Friday nights will be mere replicas of the wild enthusiasm that reigned here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Broadway Cafe got right in the spirit of things after the final game Saturday night and feted Coach Dammann and his victorious team to some very nice steak dinners.

persistently shortened the gap. At one time Brainerd held an eight point margin.

Perpich who in previous games of the tournament with Wadena and Aitkin got away with murder from the sleeper position inside the opposing team's defense, was bottled up, put in storage by Marshall whose game Saturday night further established him as the outstanding guard of the tournament.

Perpich, seeing his predicament, didn't like it in the least with the result that in the first quarter he had fouled Marshall three times. It was even more aggravating when Marshall sunk all of the free throws.

Perpich, the hope of C-I. throughout the remainder of the game was at a decided handicap. One more personal and he would have been sent to the bench and the quintet would have been badly crippled. Fear of the fourth personal kept Perpich from forcing the play. He remained quiet for the remainder of the game, allowing others to take the offensive.

There could only have been one outstanding instruction Coach Woock gave his boys at the half when they came to the dressing room. The situation was black. Brainerd was in the lead 9 to 2.

"Go in there and fight. Try for short shots in the first few minutes of play and if you're not getting anywhere pepper the basket from any angle and see that you shoot straight", Woock told his men.

The Rangers followed their coach's instructions. They charged the net but failed to make progress. Even worse, the margin was increasing, 14 to 6. Then Dobervich lifted the ball high in the air from long range. It found the basket. He got the ball again and repeated. And then Olson tried his luck. It was with him. The score was 16 to 12 at the close of the third.

The fourth quarter was a bedlam with the ball flying at the basket from all angles of the floor and Brainerd trying to hold the lead.

In the last 30 seconds of play the Brainerd boys maneuvered around the floor in a stall game and came through holding their one point lead.

Brainerd won the game on free throws, four by Vern Marshall and one by Bob Wylie. The team caught seven goals from the field. Crosby-Ironton went the hometowners one better, but only netted two free throws.

Crosby-Ironton however was lacking on shooting. They had more tries at the cage than their rivals.

The Rangers must regret that time out which penalized them and enabled Marshall to sink the free throw.

Every man on the Brainerd team contributed to its scoring power. Gerry Wylie's height came in handy in the Crosby-Ironton defense zone and worked as a pivot for the majority of plays in the scoring position. The two centers, Wylie and Perpich broke even on getting the jump.

Schuetz again proved himself indispensable to the success of the team by playing brilliant defense and offense. His speed contributed largely to take the Rangers off their guard and prevented them on many times from getting set. He also found the hoop for two baskets.

Neither Elmer Foster or Bob Wylie got the number of baskets they naturally demand. The Rangers watched them like hawks. Foster however broke away on two occasions to score and both fed other members of the team when they were in better positions to shoot.

The play by play account of the game follows:

First Quarter

Crosby-Ironton got the tipoff but Brainerd recovered before they could shoot. Marshall took the first shot of the game. It missed. Perpich, coming under the basket fouled Marshall who scored the free throw. Marshall was called for pushing and Perpich missed.

Perpich found the hoop on an overhead shot under the basket. Trying for another basket he again fouled Marshall who scored the free throw. A little while later he again fouled Marshall and the latter made it 100 per cent in free throws. The teams continued the fast pace throughout the quarter without scoring. The quarter ended with Brainerd leading 2 to 2.

Second Quarter

Schuetz started the fireworks in the second quarter by dribbling the length of the floor and passing to Gerry Wylie who scored from the centre position. Woock sent Keeler in for Petrabor and Monkkonen in for Zauhar. Gerry Wylie scored again on another pass from Schuetz. The latter scored from inside the C-I. defense. Crosby took time out and Petrabor went back in for Keeler. The half saw Brainerd leading 9 to 2.

Third Quarter

Elmer Foster scored on a rebound shot of Bob Wylie's. Marshall was fouled for pushing Perpich who missed. Zauhar scored on a rebound and a few seconds later repeated bringing the score up to 11 to 6. Bob Wylie was called for charging. Olson missing. Petrabor blocked Bob Wylie and the latter made one out of two free throws. Dobervich missed a free throw, scored on a pass out from the defense zone by Gerry Wylie, making the score 14 to 6. Crosby took time out. On resuming play Dobervich scored a long shot and Schuetz took a pass from Marshall and scored. Dobervich again found the hoop on a long shot; and Olson dropped in one from outside the Brainerd defense. Score, Brainerd 16, Crosby, 12.

Fourth Quarter

Dobervich missed a free throw, Foster being called. Dobervich scored one and missed one on his next free throw tries, Bob Wylie being charged with holding. Foster dribbled through and scored under the basket making the score 18 to 13. Crosby took time out and Brainerd was given a free throw, Marshall scoring the technical. Olson sunk a free throw, Gerry being charged with holding. Dobervich scored from the side. Perpich missed two free throws, Schuetz being called for holding. Zauhar scored under the basket. Brainerd got the ball and held it until the final gun.

Pairings in the opening games of the Sixth Regional high school basketball tournament were announced here today by W. C. Cobb, local manager, following a conference with the regional committee.

Moorhead and Brainerd, winners of the 24th and 25th district respectively, are slated to battle in the initial struggle at 8 p. m. Thursday, March 19 to be followed at 9:15 by Campbell and Glenwood, champions of District 22 and 23 respectively.

The championship tilt will commence at 9:15 p. m. Friday preceded by a consolation game of the two losers in the previous evening games.

Interest Centers Here

St. Paul, Minn., March 16—(UP)—Minnesota's high school basketball teams today started down the home stretch of intensive practice sessions which will end with the state championship tournament at the University of Minnesota field house next week.

The entry list for the state meet will be completed this week in regional tournaments at Brainerd, Thief River Falls, Mankato and South St. Paul. Championship teams to the other four regions were decided last week, three of them Saturday night.

While the teams entered in this week's regional tournaments were going through long practice periods, the regional champions already selected rested today after this long campaign.

Interest in the tournament schedule this week centers at Brainerd where Moorhead will attempt to win its eighth straight regional title. Moorhead has won 15 straight games this year, but is expected to meet tough opposition in Brainerd.

Bemidji is ranked the favorite to cop the title at Thief River Falls, while Fairmont is believed to have the strongest team entered in the Mankato meet.

Four strong aggregations, St. Paul Central, New Prague, Stillwater and Northfield, are entered in the South St. Paul tournament.

Final round scores of district and regional tournament games played Saturday night included:

Region 3 at Marshall—Glencoe 27, Balaton 5.

Region 5 at Litchfield—Buffalo 25, Hopkins 24.

Region 7 at Virginia—Chisholm 25; Duluth Denfield 13.

District 6 at Mankato—Mankato 22, Mapleton 3.

District 8 at Luverne—Luverne 22, Worthington 7.

District 13 at St. Peter—New Prague 20, Montgomery 17.

SPORTS KAYOES

By "HAPPY"

The gun finally cracked Saturday night so that's that as far as this district is concerned! If Bill Dammann's boys can make that defense work as well against Moorhead as it did against C-I and Little Falls, Moorhead will only score about one field goal in the first half and may forget all about entering the state tourney.

It is reported (and we got it pretty straight) that Coach Woock of C-I regarded his present team as the greatest he has coached during his tenure of office at the range school. He had four of last year's tournament men back this year. We agree with him—it was a great team!

That just makes the work of Bill Dammann look all the better. Bill had one man from last year's tournament squad to start with and it was the first year of basketball for the two Wylie brothers. Yet Dammann has moulded the greatest team that has represented Brainerd for several years. His team is a real tribute to his work.

We heard that a fellow told his wife the other night that he was going to leave if the contest ran into an overtime. That gives us a real laugh. In the first place he wouldn't have gone from that gym—no, wild horses couldn't have taken him away until a victor was named. And in the second place he couldn't have worked his way through that howling mob to the door if he had wanted to.

The nicest thing about Brainerd's ball club is that the five men work as a single unit. There are no stars that completely overshadow players of lesser importance—there are no players of lesser importance! Every man has to click—and how they click! There is a certain amount of work for each to do. It matters not who makes the baskets—just so they are made! That makes a real fighting ball club!

It would be hard to find a high school team that presents a better array of long shot artists than Crosby-Ironton. Staples and Aitkin are pretty good at hitting the net from a distance too, but they don't have the deadly certainty that Olson, Dobervich and Zauhar possess.

Well, honors are even now as far as district championships are concerned. The score is tied at three for Crosby-Ironton and Brainerd. school will be behind the boys 100 per cent when they face the Moorhead "Spuds" Thursday evening.

Rest in Pieces

Too Much Suspense

"So you have persuaded your husband to quit playing the races?" "Yes," answered young Mrs. Tornstrom. "I got tired of never knowing whether I was going to have a fur coat or a gingham dress."—Washington Star.

Exhausted Her Interest

Her Husband—But why should we move? You were perfectly delighted with this neighborhood when we came here a year ago.

Mrs. Chatterton—I know I was, but I'm tired of talking about the same old neighbors for a whole year.

Set and Hatch It

Two small boys were out hunting in the woods and one of them picked up a chestnut burr.

"Tommy," he called excitedly, "come here quick! I've found a porcupine's egg!"—Charleston News.

Sure of His Wages

"I want a very careful chauffeur—one who doesn't take the slightest risks," warned the would-be employer. "I'm your man, sir," answered the applicant. "Can I have my salary in advance?"

No Danger

"A fortune teller said I should go to prison for embezzling money intrusted to me."

"Don't believe it. Who would intrust money to you?"

Swiftest and Slowest

The swiftest speed we know is that of light; the slowest, that of the growth of the human thumb nail.

Borotra Plays for Fun

By HARDIN BURNLEY

JEAN PLAYS IN THE U.S. INDOOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS THIS WEEK!

BURNLEY 3-16 SPORT BUG

JEAN BOROTRA -- THE FAMOUS BOUNDING BASQUE WHO IS HEADING A FRENCH TENNIS INVASION!

JEAN BOROTRA, the bounding Basque and veteran Davis cup ace, who came over to make a racket in the National Indoor Tennis championships at the Seventh Regiment Army, New York, wouldn't have to play tennis for a living—if he played tennis for a living. As a matter of fact, the young man makes more francs per annum than any other Frenchman 31 years of age or less. An engineer by profession, a tennis ball walloper for fun, he drags down in the neighborhood of $100,000 a year.

Before leaving France, Borotra took time enough to win the French covered courts championship title from Jean Lesuer, another young man—just 18 years of age, in fact, but 13th ranking tennis player of Lafayette's native stamping ground. The score went something like this: 6—3, 11—9, 5—7 and 6—4.

With Borotra came Jacques Brugnon and Christian (which is a pretty easy French name to pronounce) Bousset, all members of the Davis cup team. Their object in the trip was to win the United States indoor championships, after which they were to meet a team of United States Internationalists, March 23 to 25.

The Frenchmen are competing under the colors of the French Lawn Tennis Association, and, incidentally, Francis T. Hunter, who recently turned professional, won the indoor title last year.

Regarding M. Borotra's income—He is the sole member of a firm which makes certain and highly important gadgets for gasoline pumps. In addition to being a whole firm by himself, Borotra manages to crowd in enough time to serve as a director in the Lower Tennessee Iron Foundries and Machinery Corporation, and, despite his frequent appearance on the courts, he pays plenty of attention to business, having recently organized subsidiary corporations in Great Britain, Germany, Australia and the United States.

Some time ago, Borotra was taken ill—this following his victory over Lesuer, but it was hoped by all tennis fans that he would recover sufficiently to take part in the armory matches, wherein an indoor addition of the expected contest between the American and French tennis teams next Summer for the Davis Cup will be served up for the customers.

By "HAPPY" COLE

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away it is comparatively easy to pick an all-district quintet and at the same time it is well-nigh impossible to pick a second five, so, for one year at least, we will content ourselves with selecting an honorary first five and in naming the others who played a major part in the basketball race this year.

As a whole the district was blessed this year with some exceptional guards and a rather fair list of forwards, while the centers, as a group, were below average.

While five or six men stood out above the others the difference between those next in line was so slight that it would be an injustice to several players to try to pick an honorary second quintet. There just wouldn't be room for all of the players that deserve the second team berths.

The Guards

Since the guards, as a class, present the happiest picture let us consider them first. The majority of the teams in the district were much stronger defensively than they were offensively, due, largely, to an abundance of good guards.

Marshall and Olson were, without doubt, the class of the district, although men of the caliber of Schuetz, Sullivan and Dobervich were only a step or two behind.

Throughout the season Marshall has done about everything that a good guard should do. He uses his long arms to tremendous advantage in blocking the shots of the opposition, he can bring the ball down the floor and is a fair shot from long range. He is almost uncanny from the free-throw line. In the final game of the tournament he had four shots from the foul circle and made every one of them good. And above all he has a very level head, being able to direct attack or defense with good judgment no matter the closeness of the score. For this reason we give the honorary captaincy of the team to Marshall.

We have selected Olson from Crosby-Ironton as Marshall's running mate. He is the only man on the honorary quintet that was placed on last year's all-district team as well. Olson is another guard of the same type as Marshall. He is generally cool and resourceful, breaks up numerous plays for his opponents and advances the ball well. He is the best shot in the entire district from long range except possible his C-I. running mate, Dobervich.

Captain Nate Schuetz of Brainerd could take the ball down the floor faster than any man in the district. He was a bear at taking the ball off the bankboard and made an exceptional captain for his team-mates.

Sullivan of Aitkin played bang-up basketball all season and was at his best against C-I in the tournament. Isensee of Pine River and A. Peterson of Staples are comers that should show up well again next year.

The Forwards

We have placed Foster, Brainerd veteran of two years, and Nickander of Aitkin at the forward posts.

Foster, throughout the season, had a steady effect on his team-mates and he has the happy faculty of making points just when they are needed most. In the Staples game at the tournament he scored both baskets for Brainerd in the overtime period. In the Little Falls game he went on a scoring spree shortly after the opening whistle, scoring six field goals in the crucial C-I. game he came through with a couple more baskets, both in the second half when Brainerd's lead was most severely threatened.

Nickander of Aitkin has been moved from his regular center position up to the other post on the firing line. He is a consistent scorer from both short and long distances and has had a great deal to do with the brilliant record of the Aitkin team. During the Pequot game Nickander sunk five field goals while his team-mates apparently couldn't find the hoop. Against Crosby-Ironton he came back with four more. He is a little too short for the center position but makes almost an ideal forward.

Brown of Aitkin covered the floor well and was into practically every play but was not so "hot" on hitting the net. The other Aitkin forward, Peterson, has turned in some mighty good ball games this season.

Newman of Little Falls was an in and out. He was very good at times and only average at others. Crockett of Pequot was almost the entire team for the Indians and a pretty good shot. Zauhar of Crosby-Ironton was going good in both the Wadena and Brainerd games but didn't do much against Aitkin although his season's record is good. Bob Wylie of Brainerd undoubtedly had more fight than almost any player in the district. He was like a cat after the ball and brought into Brainerd's possession several times when they needed it most.

The Centers

With Nickander moved up to forward there are only two or three other men to consider among the centers.

Perpich of Crosby-Ironton stood head and shoulders above the rest. He could out-jump any man in the district and had a dead-eye under the basket. He was largely responsible for C-I's showing against both Wadena and Aitkin, scoring five of the under-the-basket variety against Aitkin and six against Wadena. He only scored one against Brainerd but his work was hampered greatly by the committing of three personal fouls in the first quarter.

G. Wylie of Brainerd had a very good tournament record and was a great asset to his team. This was his first year of basketball and great things are expected of him next year.

Askew of Wadena was the only man on the Wadena squad that could hit the net against Crosby. He accounted for five of Wadena's seven field goals.

Christensen of Pine River is another comer. It was his first year of basketball but he was entirely too much for LaFond, the Little Falls pivot man. He held LaFond to two field goals while he was accounting for five field goals and a couple of free throws himself. He should improve much before tournament time next year.

Cattle Should Have All Oats They Will Clean Up

Cattle should have all of the oats they will clean up good in two feeds per day, after being gradually worked up to a full feed in about four weeks' time, and should have about one pound of linseed oilmeal per head per day. This can be fed right from the beginning. By feeding your steers oats in this way for a period of five to six months, especially if you have enough hay of fair quality to use along with the oats, you should have your cattle in pretty fat condition, fat enough to just about suit the packer buyers when they reach market.

Live Stock Facts

Skim milk, good quality alfalfa hay, or clover hay should be fed to furnish protein.

A hog can stand much abuse and neglect, but negligence and indifference do not make for profitable pork production.

It has been found that often sheep will drink very little water if they are on good soft green pasture that is very high in water content during the spring or fall months.

While the swine industry is on the decline in this country a larger number of hogs than a year ago is reported in most foreign producing countries, particularly in Europe.

Psychopathic Hospital Bill

BECAUSE cases of mental disorder are cause of increasing concern to the profession of medicine, to communities and to families in which such cases exist, a state-wide committee of approximately 200 members was organized to further the passage of the proposed Psychopathic Hospital Bill in the present session of the Minnesota legislature. Introduced by Mrs. Babeth Hurd Paige, Minneapolis representative, and by Senator Sherman Child, and endorsed by 60 social, educational and professional organizations, the bill will be among the outstanding items of legislation.

The legislature of 1923 passed an act creating a psychopathic department of the University of Minnesota Hospitals. The bill provided for the control of such a department, outlined its functions, and defined its relationship to the University and to the State Board of Control. But it made no financial provision for the building nor for the equipment required by such a department.

Now, endorsed alike by institutions under Protestant, Catholic and Jewish support, by men of the medical profession, educators and the laity, the bill before the present session will ask for funds for such a hospital as a unit of the University of Minnesota Medical School.

Its purpose is to provide a place where study of the prevention of mental disorders may be made, where suspected cases may be sent for observation, diagnosis and possible cure, instead of being allowed, through neglect, to develop into incurable cases, thus becoming state charges.

Proponents of the bill deem it an economy measure in that it will reduce the number of the mentally disordered to be sent to other state institutions, will provide laboratory facilities for the study of methods in the prevention of mental diseases, will aid communities in solving their problem of how to provide a period of observation for their afflicted, and will greatly shorten the period of separation from home and community and from economic usefulness.

In Brainerd Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, formerly of the County Child Welfare Board and interested in many humanitarian movements, has taken deep interest in advocacy of the bill and has secured the support of individuals and organizations for the measure.

Over-Riding Handicaps

IN that monumental biography, "Abraham Lincoln," by Albert J. Beveridge, we are told that Lincoln "was six feet and four inches in height, his feet and hands were abnormally large, he was awkward in his gait and actions," says a review in the Minnesota Parent-Teacher. "His skin was a dark, sallow color, his features were coarse, his expression kind and amiable, his eyes were indicative of deep reflection, and, in times of repose, of deep sorrow as well. His head was high, but not large, his forehead was broad at the base, but retreated. He wore a hat measuring seven and one-eighths. His ears were large, his hair coarse, black and bushy, which stood out all over his head, with no appearance of ever having been combed. His chest was thin, shoulders narrow, he walked with a stoop and had the look of a consumptive."

To this was added the comment of a frequent bed-fellow who observed that Lincoln "slept in a home-made, yellow flannel undershirt which reached halfway between his knees and ankles." Thus attired Lincoln was described as "the ugliest figure I ever saw."

What was it that made people forget the unprepossessing appearance of Abraham Lincoln? Nothing less than his great heart and mind, his love for all mankind, his honesty, his devotion to the right, his infinite patience, his courage.

"He was kind, tender and affectionate . . . the very kindest father I ever saw."

Who but one with his saintly qualities could have overcome the handicap of speech, figure and appearance and achieved the pinnacle of greatness? Truly an inspiration!

Brainerd Proud of Team and Coach

BRAINERD is proud of its team and coach. The victory of Saturday night, won by a narrow margin, by splendid play and strategy, is a most creditable one. Under Coach Dammann's tutelage the team has developed slowly and rounding into championship form when the real test came.

Never before has Brainerd seen a series with such close scores. Play in this district has put Brainerd into training to compete well in the regional which comes this week. Our hopes, our prayers are for our team and may they "come through" again.

The game which won the district championship Saturday night was of such nervous tension that it affected crowd as well as players. When Brainerd stalled just a bit at the finish and Crosby-Ironton tried frantically to break it up and get the ball, the wall of humanity which marked Brainerd's presence in the gymnasium held its breath and hearts actually ceased beating. No greater example of mass emotion has been experienced in town.

Relieving Unemployment

UNEMPLOYMENT is to be relieved in many projects improving American ports and waterways. A fund of over $50,000,000 has been apportioned among some 250 projects, ten of which received more than $1,000,000 each.

Fully half of this amount will be spent for labor. And labor will be paid at the prevailing scale in all localities. The projects are scattered all over the United States. The total sectional projects on the Mississippi amount to $6,763,000.

IN the last analysis the family molds a child's personality. A repressive atmosphere in home life reacts on the child.

Catholic Mass Service Recorded in Pictures

New York, March 16.—(U.P.)—The first motion picture ever taken of the Catholic service of the mass was brought to America today by Father J. Wilson Brady of St. Thomas church, Minneapolis, who made the picture in Rome.

He had several conferences with the pope concerning the 13-month year and the setting of a permanent date for Easter.

"When I first proposed the picture idea," said Father Brady, "I was told it was inconceivable. I pointed out, however, that motion pictures had been made of services at the Eucharistic congress in Chicago and that, as other pictures were bound to be taken, it would be better to take such a film under the best conditions. Finally the Vatican gave its permission."

Lighting effects in the Sistine chapel were poor so the picture was filmed in St. Isidore's, the Paulist fathers chapel. The picture is to be shown in connection with church work.

I pointed out, however, that motion pictures had been made of services at the Eucharistic congress in Chicago and that, as other pictures were bound to be taken, it would be better to take such a film under the best conditions. "FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret. Jack Beamer sends flowers. Nancy and her sister, Lou, attend the engagement party of May Belle Craig. Nancy longs for Roger. Beamer arrives and monopolizes her. Nancy repulses Beamer's advances. Lou is thrilled by Mat Tully's attentions. At home, Nancy's letters from Roger arouse her mother's suspicions. Mat takes Lou to the opera.

CHAPTER XXIX.

A tall man with a large nose and a shiny bald head, squeezed down the aisle. Louise stood up to let him pass.

Out came an immense moist hand. "This is a surprise!" The tall man stopped and beamed at Louise. "Well!" he cried jovially. "Well, well!"

He stood there, blocking the aisle, right in front of Mat. He seemed unable to tear himself away.

"Mr. Lachman," Louise introduced him.

Mr. Lachman gave Mat his dead fish of a hand. "Glad to know you," he mumbled, without withdrawing his gaze from Louise.

Wealth's Glamour

When the evening was over he drove them to the ferry in his car. It was a large, expensive looking car with nickel trimmings, cigar lighters and cut glass vases, and a chauffeur in front.

"He's papa's friend. Wasn't it lucky we met him?" Louise laughed happily, when they were on the ferry going home. "The car must have cost at least a million. Did you ever see so many ash-trays and things? Everything but a cuspidor!"

Mat Tully did not smile. "A like big cars, too," he said.

"That's a wonderful girl you have, Hollenbeck," Oliver T. Lachman, president of the Parkhurst National Bank, told his cashier the next day. "I recognized her at the opera, and had the pleasure of driving her and her escort to the ferry. I'd like to see her again sometime. Very intelligent, charming girl. Very intelligent, indeed."

Papa's trip home seemed longer than ever that night. He was so impatient to tell Louise what Lachman had said.

He and Oliver—though he rarely thought of him so familiarly these days—had been boys together. Oliver had given him the position more than twenty years ago. He had always thought it would develop into something big some day, but it never had. Oliver had forgotten his promises. There had been times when he seemed to have forgotten their friendship, when he spoke to him curtly, almost sneeringly, as if he were an aged pensioner of whom he was anxious to be rid.

But if he were going to take an interest again, through the children, and want to renew the old friendship . . . Papa let his imagination drift . . . a raise, of course . . . perhaps a vice-presidency . . . he really deserved it . . . a shame to keep a man of his age and ability as a mere hireling, forced to take orders from younger men

She Was Beginning to Worry. Suppose Roger Should Find Out About Jack.

And Lachman was generous to his friends . . . when he happened to remember them . . .

"Mr. Lachman was interested in you," he told Louise a little shyly. "He told me he'd like to see you and over in his mind until it sounded queer. 'He said he'd like the opportunity of really talking to you some day. We . . . we might have him to dinner.'"

"If you like," Louise said absently. She was wondering if Mat would call up to ask if she was tired after the opera. She wished he would. He had seemed a bit cold towards the last . . . perhaps it was because he was tired . . . he slaved so in the lab . . . other girls did those things . . .

Mama's voice, shrill and high, bored into her thoughts: "I'm not very strong, as you know, and I think it is very unreasonable for you to want to bring men to dinner just at this time when I'm so busy . . ."

"Busy?" Papa questioned, a little unsympathetically for him.

Puzzled

"Yes, and worried . . . with one thing and another . . ." She pointed a shaking finger at a jar of Irish Elegants that stood on the mantle. There was another on the table, and a bowl on the table. "Mr. Beamer sent them to Nancy. Three dozen of them. And another box day before yesterday."

"Why, Kitty, you don't think . . . come now . . . there's no significance in an older man sending flowers to a young girl? You don't think . . ."

"I don't know what to think." "But, Kitty, dear, when you were a young girl . . . didn't old Mr. . . what was his name—the social leader . . . Dunlop . . . didn't he often send you flowers? A graceful tribute to a debutante, and a mighty pretty one," he finished gallantly.

"Well . . ." Mama felt better. She patted her hair thoughtfully. "As I was saying, it might be a good thing to invite Lachman—Oliver Lachman, you know, to dinner. It would help me in business, and he practically asked for the invitation . . ."

Visiting chicken and a sink full of dirty dishes, mama's headache came back. "Not NOW!" she wailed. "You're always wanting to bring someone home. First it's your mother, and now it's Mr. Lachman, and Louise having that study club of hers for lunch Thursday—I'm not equal to it—I tell you!"

"Well, Hollenbeck, what's the good news?" Mr. Lachman asked the next morning, rubbing his hands.

BAN REMAINS ON DRINK STUDENTS

PARENTS AWAIT ACTION OF LEGISLATORS AND SCHOOL HEADS BEFORE NEXT MOVE

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(U.P.)—Harmonizing the discordant groups arising from the suspension of 16 students for alleged drink became the task of officials at the University of Minnesota farm school today.

Just when 15 students would be readmitted to the institution which is a sort of high school on the agricultural campus was not determined. It was reported they would be allowed to finish their work after doing some measures of penance.

Two students who are accused of being "campus bootleggers" are expelled definitely, officials said. The start of commencement week yesterday was unexciting. Nothing happened to attract special attention for the 13 members of the senior class who were among the suspended members.

Seventeen members of the graduating class who protested to the state legislature that they did not want to be classed with "drunks" did not protest at the baccalaureate sermon. Members of the state legislature today discussed whether to pass a resolution directing farm school officials to reinstate the students or to allow the faculty to follow their own course. Parents of the suspended students were waiting for some action on the part of the legislators or the school officials before making their next step.

J. O. Christianson, acting principal of the farm school, and Dean W. C. Coffey of the agricultural school, issued a statement last night. It read:

"There is an impression that the students of the school of agriculture who have been suspended will be reinstated to participate in commencement exercises. This impression is without foundation. Certain of these students will be required to return for an additional term; certain others will, upon completion of an assigned summer project, and upon satisfactory evidence of sound deportment, be granted their diplomas at the close of the next term."

INLAND WATERWAYS LIST 1930 PROFITS

Washington, March 16.—(U.P.)—A profit of $65,177.09 for 1930 will be reported to the war department by the Inland Waterways corporation operating government owned barges on the Mississippi river, officials of the corporation said today.

Last year the corporation lost $72,798.08, officials said, although it has averaged a profit for the last five years because large gains in some periods offset losses in others.

Officials said the corporation now has a balance of $7,000,000 which will be used in improving and enlarging the service.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret. Jack Beamer sends flowers. Nancy and her sister, Lou, attend the engagement party of May Belle Craig. Nancy longs for Roger. Beamer arrives and monopolizes her. Nancy repulses Beamer's advances. Lou is thrilled by Mat Tully's attentions. At home, Nancy's letters from Roger arouse her mother's suspicions. Mat takes Lou to the opera.

CHAPTER XXIX.

A tall man with a large nose and a shiny bald head, squeezed down the aisle. Louise stood up to let him pass.

Out came an immense moist hand. "This is a surprise!" The tall man stopped and beamed at Louise. "Well," he cried jovially. "Well, well!"

He stood there, blocking the aisle, right in front of Mat. He seemed unable to tear himself away.

"Mr. Lachman," Louise introduced him.

Mr. Lachman gave Mat his dead fish of a hand. "Glad to know you," he mumbled, without drawing his gaze from Louise.

Wealth's Glamour

When the evening was over he drove them to the ferry in his car. It was a large, expensive looking car with nickel trimmings, cigar lighters and cut glass vases, and a chauffeur in front.

"He's papa's friend. Wasn't it lucky we met him?" Louise laughed happily, when they were on the ferry going home. "The car must have cost at least a million. Did you ever see so many ash-trays and things? Everything but a cuspidor!"

Mat Tully did not smile. "A like big cars, too," he said.

"That's a wonderful girl you have, Hollenbeck," Oliver T. Lachman, president of the Parkhurst National Bank, told his cashier the next day. "I recognized her at the opera, and had the pleasure of driving her and her escort to the ferry. I'd like to see her again some time. Very intelligent, charming girl. Very intelligent, indeed."

Papa's trip home seemed longer than ever that night. He was so impatient to tell Louise what Lachman had said. He and Oliver—though he rarely thought of him so familiarly these days—had been boys together. Oliver had given him the position more than twenty years ago. He had always thought it would develop into something big some day, but it never had. Oliver had forgotten his promises. There had been times when he seemed to have forgotten their friendship, when he spoke to him curiously, almost sneeringly, as if he were an aged pensioner of whom he was anxious to be rid.

But if he were going to take an interest again, through the children, and want to renew the old friendship . . . Papa let his imagination drift . . . a raise, of course . . . perhaps a vice-presidency . . . he really deserved it . . . a shame to keep a man of his age and ability as a mere hireling, forced to take orders from younger men

She Was Beginning to Worry. Suppose Roger Should Find Out About Jack.

And Lachman was generous to his friends . . . when he happened to remember them . . . "Mr. Lachman was interested in you," he told Louise a little shyly, because he had repeated it over and over in his mind until it sounded queer. "He said he'd like the opportunity of really talking to you some day. We . . . we might have him to dinner."

"If you like," Louise said absently. She was wondering if Mat would call up to ask if she was tired after the opera. She wished he would. He had seemed a bit cold towards the last . . . perhaps it was because he was tired. . . he slaved so in the lab . . . maybe she could call him . . . other girls did those things. . .

Mama's voice, shrill and high, bored into her thoughts:

"I'm not very strong, as you know, and I think it is very unreasonable for you to want to bring men to dinner just at this time when I'm so busy. . ."

"Busy?" Papa questioned, a little unsympathetically for him.

Puzzled

"Yes, and worried. . . with one thing and another. . . She pointed a shaking finger at a jar of Irish Elegants that stood on the piano. There was another on the mantle, and a bowl on the table. "Mr. Beamer sent them to Nancy. Three dozen of them. And another box day before yesterday."

"Why, Kitty, you don't think. . . come now. . . there's no significance in an older man sending flowers to a young girl? You don't think. . ."

"I don't know what to think." "But, Kitty, dear, when you were a young girl . . . didn't old Mr. . . what was his name—the social leader . . . Dunlop . . . didn't he often send you flowers? A graceful tribute to a debutante, and a mighty pretty one, he finished gallantly."

"Well . . . Mama felt better. She patted her hair thoughtfully. "As I was saying, it might be a good thing to invite Lachman—Oliver Lachman, you know, to dinner. It would help me in business, and he practically asked for the invitation."

Visioning chicken and a sink full of dirty dishes, mama's headache came back. "Not NOW!" she wailed. "You're always wanting to bring someone home. First it's your mother, and now it's Mr. Lachman, and Louise having that study club of hers for lunch Thursday—I'm not equal to it—I tell you!"

"Well, Hollenbeck, what's the good news?" Mr. Lachman asked the next morning, rubbing his hands.

officials before making their next step.

J. O. Christianson, acting principal of the farm school, and Dean W. C. Coffey of the agricultural school, issued a statement last night. It read:

"There is an impression that the students of the school of agriculture who have been suspended will be reinstated to participate in commencement exercises. This impression is without foundation. Certain of these students will be required to return for an additional term; certain others will, upon completion of an assigned summer project, and upon satisfactory evidence of sound deportment, be granted their diplomas at the close of the next term."

BAN REMAINS ON DRINK STUDENTS

PARENTS AWAIT ACTION OF LEGISLATORS AND SCHOOL HEADS BEFORE NEXT MOVE

St. Paul, Minn., March 16 (UP)—Harmonizing the discordant groups arising from the suspension of 16 students for alleged drink became the task of officials at the University of Minnesota farm school today.

Just when 15 students would be readmitted to the institution which is a sort of high school on the agricultural campus was not determined. It was reported they would be allowed to finish their work after doing some measures of penance.

Two students who are accused of being "campus bootleggers" are expelled definitely, officials said.

The start of commencement week yesterday was unexciting. Nothing happened to attract special attention for the 13 members of the senior class who were among the suspended members.

Seventeen members of the graduating class who protested to the state legislature that they did not want to be classed with "drunks" did not protest at the baccalaureate sermon.

Members of the state legislature today discussed whether to pass a resolution directing farm school officials to reinstate the students or to allow the faculty to follow their own course.

Parents of the suspended students were waiting for some action on the part of the legislators or the school

INLAND WATERWAYS LIST 1930 PROFITS

Washington, March 16. (UP)—A profit of $65,177.09 for 1930 will be reported to the war department by the Inland Waterways corporation operating government owned barges on the Mississippi river, officials of the corporation said today.

Last year the corporation lost $72,798.08, officials said, although it has averaged a profit for the last five years because large gains in some periods offset losses in others.

Officials said the corporation now has a balance of $7,000,000 which will be used in improving and enlarging the service.

LADIES FROM RURAL DISTRICTS FETED

Over 50 Attended Musical Club Program; Mrs. Henry I. Cohen, Hostess of Day

SONGS, SPEECHES FEATURE

Following Luncheon Members and Guests Attend Concert in Elks Hall

The luncheon preceding the musical club program on Saturday was held at the Ransford hotel and was of unusual interest, in that the guests of honor were ladies from the rural districts. Over 50 ladies from Brainerd and the surrounding country availed themselves of the privilege of attending the luncheon and listening to the speeches. Mrs. Henry I. Cohen was hostess of the day and presided in her always charming manner. She explained the purpose of the gathering and conducted the program. Various songs were sung under the capable direction of Mrs. C. W. Hoffman and Mrs. Louis Knudsen. During the progress of the meal the two guests of honor discussed the questions on which they were asked to speak.

Mrs. A. F. Claus of Fort Ripley, who is one of the five women honored in Minnesota last year as "Master Farm Home Maker," spoke very modestly of the qualifications necessary for election to so great an honor.

The woman who is eligible for nomination must be suggested by five ladies who thing her work, her personality, and her public service outstanding enough for her to be worthy of the office. Then she must fill out a lengthy questionnaire, as must each of the five ladies, and as a climax the home is visited by state workers who make the final decision in the matter. Crow Wing county is, indeed, proud of Mrs. Claus.

Mrs. John Gibson took her listeners on an interesting imaginary tour with the 4-H club and explained the steps from the initial meeting to the final exhibit at Chicago. Both Mrs. Claus and Mrs. Gibson spoke with an ease and fluency that proved to the audience that the gap between rural and urban populations has long since been bridged by the widening influences and experiences of the farm women of today, and their mastery of cultural advantages brought to them by paper, radio and automobile. Both of these ladies showed by their platform manner that they were long accustomed to speaking before clubs organized and directed by their capable minds.

In addition to the speakers, a number of ladies came in from their homes to be present at the luncheon. These ladies were:

Mrs. George McKay of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. H. C. Hughes of Long Lake.
Mrs. Angus Murray of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. L. A. McCulloch of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. H. M. Hoff of Lake Edwards.
Mrs. Ray Cook of Lucky Lindy club.
Mrs. J. C. Poinsett of Lucky Lindy club.

Mrs. A. G. Nelson of Miller Lake.
Mrs. John Persson of Dykeman.
Mrs. Fred Bock of Nokay Lake.
Mrs. Linn Lougee.
Miss Alta Wunderlich of Miller Lake.

Mrs. C. W. Cunningham of Lucky Lindy club.
Mrs. D. Dahmen of Dykeman.
Mrs. Fred Blomberg of Deerwood.
Miss Lois Blomberg of Deerwood.
Mrs. Melvin Stropp of Center.
Mrs. Ernest Brand of Pine Center.

Mrs. E. J. Quinn, president of the musical club, explained that the luncheons were sponsored by the past presidents, and expressed her great pleasure at the large attendance. The meeting adjourned to attend the concert at the Elks hall.

That concert seemed to prove that minstrelsy is still popular judging from the acclaim with which Duncan Robertson, baritone, was received. He sang simple ballads to his own accompaniments and completely won the hearts of his audience. This was partly due to an exceptionally pleasing voice, but more especially due to a deep dramatic sense and a love for the poetry that he recited in song.

He divided his program into serious, romantic and gay songs. But the first part of the program might have been called Songs of Many Lands. He gave an ancient and a modern Russian ballad, an English folk song, a French lullaby in which the practical Breton mother tells her baby of the fertilizing value of snow, the while the accompaniment depicts the gently falling flakes. Then followed a story of a broken romance in which the lovers meet again after a lapse of years and visit the scenes of their youth. They find all the old, familiar paths and themselves. "Rien change que vous," scenes—everything unchanged, except was the conclusion of the Parisian lover. This group closed with two lovely numbers by Schuman "Die Blume" and "Helle Nacht."

The romantic group had one novelty taken from the poems of the wonder child. They recited quite a sensation when they were published, as it was discovered that the girl was a child of 12. This was "I'm in Love with the Janitor's Boy." But the group that gave Duncan Robertson's dramatic talent the greatest scope was his negro folk songs. This group included many of those sung by Paul Robeson in Northrup auditorium a few weeks ago and he did not suffer greatly by comparison. The group also contained a novelty, "The Glory Road" which he tried for the first time on his Brainerd audience, first telling them that it was similar to the realism shown in "Green Pastures." It depicts a race between the Lord and the Devil for the possession of a darkey's soul. The darkey was seated behind the Lord on a horse that was leagues in length with great hoofs and fire-breathing nostrils. The devil was hot upon their heels with his trident out-stretched upon which he hoped to impale "dat nigger to roast in hell." No ride of Valkyries could be any wilder, and the audience heaved and audible sigh of relief when the gates of heaven opened to admit the Lord and the "niggah" and closed upon the devil.

Mr. Robertson recited this hair-raising bit of realism, using a few accompanying chords for emphasis. He also gave a negro Spiritual with dramatic power one that his own black mammy taught him. He explained that it was customary for the congregation to begin the refrain, "Mah Soul is a Witness fo Mah Lawd." Then the minister would recite the story of Methuselah, and the audience would sing the refrain, and then came the stories of Samson and Daniel in turn, each followed by the refrain from the "seekers." By the time the song was finished they were all singing and marching around the church, for they had had their religion. "You have no idea how wild these revivals get," said Mr. Robertson. Evidently, black folk can get excited over religion as white folks can over a basketball tournament.

Before giving his last group, the singer did a very graceful thing. He sang a song in honor of the Master Home-maker of Crow Wing county—Mrs. A. F. Claus. The song was "I Pass by Your Window." Mrs. Claus gracefully acknowledged the compliment by saying she had never felt so honored in her life. Mrs. Claus and four other rural friends were the guests of the president, Mrs. A. J. Quinn.

Mr. Robertson called his last group "Songs of Gay People." It contained a Russian folk-song taught him by the court singer of the Czar. He said that these songs couldn't be bought, but he had learned it from manuscript. The Russians had many of these gypsy folk-songs that have never been published. One wonders if they still sing them or if they have gone with the old regime.

Two charming poems by A. A. Milne, "Missy" and "Vespers" and a Maeseled poem reciting the story of the channel boats are also worthy of mention among those constituting the formal part of his very informal program. But the delightful part of the program was his generous response to the spontaneous applause. He gave: "Jersey Cow," "Old Man River," "Bon Jour Belle," "Water Boy," and declared that he could stay and sing all night were it not for the fear of tiring his audience.

Some expressed a desire for an aria just to show what he could do with his voice and he promised to sing one the next time he came. "This is marvellous," he said to the reviewer. "I came to Brainerd not knowing one thing about it—not knowing what kind of an approach to make and you seem to like every thing I do—I feel that you are all my friends. I never got such a response from a strange audience."

TWO IN MUNICIPAL COURT

William Heikkinen and Uno Orevalla Plead Guilty to Charge of Drunkenness

William Heikkinen and Uno Orevalla, Brainerd men, were arraigned before Judge J. H. Warner in municipal court this morning on the charge of drunkenness. They were picked up by police officers yesterday.

Both plead guilty to the charge and each was given the sentence of ten days in the city jail or a fine of $10. Heikkinen was given a stay of sentence of two days.

INQUEST VERDICT, ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Funeral Services Tomorrow for Harry Carlson, Ironton, Victim of Electrocution

CONTACTS LIVE WIRE

Is Survived by Wife and Three Children; Was Raised on a Farm Near Ironton

Masonic funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Harry Carlson, 28, of Ironton, who met death Saturday by electrocution after coming in contact with a live wire. A coroner's inquest held Saturday afternoon by Albert Humble of Crosby, deputy coroner, gave the verdict of accidental death.

The accident occurred Saturday morning at 11:15 o'clock when Carlson climbed a pole on the line between the Mahanomen and Morocco mines to test the line. He was the first man up the pole and must of climbed faster than he thought for he met instant death when his head came in contact with a live wire at the top of the pole. Previous to the accident Carlson was sent to pull a switch at the Morocco mine. He made a mistake and fixed one at the Milford mine. He reported at the Ironton sub-station that he had fixed the switch at the Morocco mines.

He then went with several others to test the line between the Morocco mine (where he thought he had fixed the switch) and the Mahanomen mine. Mr. Carlson is survived by his wife and three children. He was raised on a farm near Ironton.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY CAUSES TWO DEATHS

MAIL TRUCK DRIVER THINKS OFFICER A BANDIT, DEPUTY THINKS DRIVER, RUMMER

Wilmington, N. C., March 16.—(UP)—Killing of a United States mail truck driver and a deputy sheriff in a gun battle in which each mistook the identity of the other was under inquiry today.

Leopold Roberts, the driver, had started his regular trip Saturday night to carry the mail from Goldsboro to Wilmington. He had complained previously to postal authorities of attempts to hold up the truck, and said he would defend the mail at all costs.

Deputy Sheriff W. Paul Stirling, meanwhile, had learned that an attempt to run a load of liquor into Wilmington would be made Sunday. Smith creek bridge, one mile north of and stationed himself with his posse at Wilmington.

As the mail truck approached, he stepped out into the glare of the headlights. Roberts started shooting, and Stirling returned the fire. The other deputies joined in, killing Roberts, but the driver's bullets had already hit Stirling.

Three young Wilmington girls were found to be in the truck, but were uninjured. One of them, Elizabeth Hines, said she was driving because Roberts had complained of a headache. It was said Roberts had often carried passengers with him.

Enlists in Navy
Howard LeRoy Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Payne, of Leonard, Minn., Frederick Daily, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Daily of Peguot, and Clinton Frank O'Neil of Park Rapids, enlisted in the United States navy via the Brainerd sub-recruiting station, March 12.

Frederick is a brother of Ensign Ruel Daily who enlisted in the navy August 10, 1924, as apprentice seaman for the naval academy class at Great Lakes naval training station, he graduated from Annapolis with the class of 1929, and is now stationed aboard the U. S. S. Tennessee at San Pedro.

They are now at Great Lakes naval training station for a nine week period of preliminary training, after which they will be granted a 12 day leave of absence to visit their parents before attending a trade school or transferred to duty with the fleet.

16 PEAT FIRES ARE SMOULDERING

None of Them Are Dangerous But Vary in Size; Rhodes Issues Warning to Settlers

Sixteen peat fires, none of them dangerous, were smouldering today in this district. The fires are scattered over four county and vary in size from a few acres to between 200 and 300 acres.

"The situation is not alarming, but dry weather may make trouble later," Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes said this afternoon.

At the present time the state is allowing no funds for the extinguishing of these fires.

Mr. Rhodes said that settlers should be warned that they must be careful about fires despite the little moisture that there is now. "People should be sure that fires are entirely extinguished before they leave them," Mr. Rhodes added.

BOLD RUM RUNNING ATTEMPT FAILS; LOSS TO SMUGGLERS HEAVY

New London, Conn., March 16.—(UP)—One of the boldest rum running attempts on record—an effort to land two cargoes of liquor at Croton, under the very nose of the coast guard—were failures today costing the smugglers several hundred thousand dollars.

Two rum boats, the trawler Notus, an old offender, and the speedboat 605-H, sought Sunday to land cargoes of 800 and 1,065 sacks of liquor, respectively, on the conspicuous dock of Hotel Griswold, across New London harbor from the coast guard base. The Notus was grounded and captured, after a chase, in Fort Pond Bay, at the eastern tip of Long Island. The motorboat 605-H, so greatly overloaded it was unsable, shipped water and sank.

The $50,000 cargo of the trawler and crew of three were seized by the coast guard patrol boat CG-212. The CG-806 rescued the four-man crew of the speedboat before it sank.

MAY BROADCAST REGIONAL GAMES

Plans Are Underway Now to Tie up With Broadcasting Company for Contests This Week

AMPLIFIER SUCCESSFUL

System is Used to Keep Fans Posted on Players, Time Out, Penalties, and Scores

According to a statement by Gateway Electric Co. officials today plans are being made to tie up with a broadcasting company to broadcast the regional tournament from Washington high school gymnasium here Thursday and Friday.

In an effort to render the public every possible service during the district meet here last week the athletic board at the high school had an amplifying system installed. After considerable experimenting the system was operating fairly well Saturday night, and was used to good advantage in announcing to the crowd the names of players, times out, and penalties.

Use of the amplifier was donated by Rosko brothers, while a Minneapolis concern donated the speakers and the Gateway Electric donated their services of installation and experimentation and also the services of Andy Stucki, announcer.

100 ATTEND MEET AT DAGGETT BROOK

County Agent E. G. Roth and Mrs. A. F. Claus on Program; Several Musical Numbers

County Agent E. G. Roth and Mrs. A. F. Claus spoke Saturday evening to a group of about 100 at a meeting of the Daggett Brook Farm Bureau Saturday evening held in the Daggett Brook town hall.

Mr. Roth gave an interesting address on "The Agricultural Outlook" while Mrs. Claus spoke on "4-H Club Work."

There were several musical numbers and readings on the program. The Wunderlich brothers sang and gave several banjo selections that were very well received. Harvey Britton gave a reading.

A luncheon was served at the close of the program.

Airline Reservations Can Be Made at Western Union

According to an announcement made here today Western Union telegraph offices in all places of any importance can receive fares and make reservations for seats on passenger planes of a number of airlines without charge to the traveler. By this arrangement the airlines have created a single, national means of making their services readily available to the public.

Air-transport officials predict that an increase in air travel will result from the establishment of this medium for obtaining information, and arranging reservations without extra cost.

CROSBY LEGION WILL PLACE TREES IN PARK

Land to be Improved Lies East of Playground; Engage the Services of Landscape Gardener

The Clarence A. Nelson post of the American Legion at Crosby has decided to go ahead with the planting of 400 trees in the Crosby park. This is one of the projects for civic improvement that the Crosby Legionnaires have launched.

The land to be improved lies to the east of the playground. The Legion has employed a landscape gardener, and the work will get underway as soon as a break in the weather permits.

LADIES FROM RURAL DISTRICTS FETED

Over 50 Attended Musical Club Program; Mrs. Henry I. Cohen, Hostess of Day

SONGS, SPEECHES FEATURE

Following Luncheon Members and Guests Attend Concert in Elks Hall

The luncheon preceding the musical club program on Saturday was held at the Ransford hotel and was of unusual interest, in that the guests of honor were ladies from the rural districts. Over 50 ladies from Brainerd and the surrounding country availed themselves of the privilege of attending the luncheon and listening to the speeches. Mrs. Henry I. Cohen was hostess of the day and presided in her always charming manner. She explained the purpose of the gathering and conducted the program. Various songs were sung under the capable direction of Mrs. C. W. Hoffman and Mrs. H. S. Knudsen. During the progress of the meal the two guests of honor discussed the questions on which they were asked to speak.

Mrs. A. F. Claus of Fort Ripley, who is one of the five women honored in Minnesota last year as "Master Farm Home Maker," spoke very modestly of the qualifications necessary for election to so great an honor. The woman who is eligible for nomination must be suggested by five ladies who think her work, her personality, and her public service outstanding enough for her to be worthy of the office. Then she must fill out a lengthy questionnaire, as must each of the five ladies, and as a climax the home is visited by state workers who make the final decision in the matter. Crow Wing county is, indeed, proud of Mrs. Claus.

Mrs. John Gibson took her listeners on an interesting imaginary tour with the 4-H club and explained the steps from the initial meeting to the final exhibit at Chicago. Both Mrs. Claus and Mrs. Gibson spoke with an ease and fluency that proved to the audience that the gap between rural and urban populations has long since been bridged by the widening influences and experiences of the farm women of today, and their mastery of cultural advantages brought to them by paper, radio and automobile. Both of these ladies showed by their platform manner that they were long accustomed to speaking before clubs organized and directed by their capable minds.

In addition to the speakers, a number of ladies came in from their homes to be present at the luncheon. These ladies were:

Mrs. George McKay of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. H. C. Hughes of Long Lake.
Mrs. Angus Murray of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. L. A. McCulloch of Oak Lawn.
Mrs. H. M. Hoff of Lake Edwards.
Mrs. Ray Cook of Lucky Lindy club.
Mrs. J. C. Poinsett of Lucky Lindy club.
Mrs. A. G. Nelson of Miller Lake.
Mrs. John Persson of Dykeman.
Mrs. Fred Beck of Nokay Lake.
Mrs. Linn Lougee.
Miss Alta Wunderlich of Miller Lake.
Mrs. C. W. Cunningham of Lucky Lindy club.
Mrs. D. Dahmen of Dykeman.
Mrs. Fred Blomberg of Deerwood.
Miss Lois Blomberg of Deerwood.
Mrs. Melvin Stropp of Center.
Mrs. Ernest Brand of Pine Center.
Mrs. E. J. Quinn, president of the musical club, explained that the luncheons were sponsored by the past presidents, and expressed her great pleasure at the large attendance. The meeting adjourned to attend the concert at the Elks hall.

That concert seemed to prove that minstrelsy is still popular judging from the acclaim with which Duncan Robertson, baritone, was received. He sang simple ballads in his own accompaniments and completely won the hearts of his audience. This was partly due to an exceptionally pleasing voice, but more especially due to a deep dramatic sense and a love for the poetry that he recited in song. He divided his program into serious, romantic and gay songs. But the first part of the program might have been called Songs of Many Lands. He gave an ancient and a modern Russian ballad, an English folk song, a French lullaby in which the practical Breton mother tells her baby of the fertilizing value of snow, the while the accompaniment depicts the gently falling flakes. Then followed a story of a broken romance in which the lovers meet again after a lapse of years and visit the scenes of their youth. They find all the old, familiar paths and themselves. "Rien change que vous," scenes—everything unchanged, except was the conclusion of the Parisian lover. This group closed with two lovely numbers by Sehman "Die Blume" and "Helle Nacht."

The romantic group had one novelty taken from the poems of the wonder child. They recited quite a sensation when they were published, as it was discovered that the girl was a child of 12. This was "I'm in Love with the Janitor's Boy." But the group that gave Duncan Robertson's dramatic talent the greatest scope was his negro folk songs. This group included many of those sung by Paul Robeson in Northrup auditorium a few weeks ago and he did not suffer greatly by comparison. The group also contained a novelty, "The Glory Road" which he tried for the first time on his Brainerd audience, first telling them that it was similar to the realism shown in "Green Pastures." It depicts a race between the Lord and the Devil for the possession of a darkey's soul. The darkey was seated behind the Lord on a horse that was leaping in length with great hoofs and fire-breathing. The devil was hot upon their heels with his trident out-stretched upon which he hoped to impale "dat nigger to roast in hell." No ride of Valkyries could be any wilder, and the audience heaved and audible sigh of relief when the gates of heaven opened to admit the Lord and the "niggah" and closed upon the devil. Mr. Robertson recited this hair-raising bit of realism, using a few accompanying chords for emphasis.

He also gave a negro Spiritual with dramatic power one that his own black mammy taught him. He explained that it was customary for the congregation to begin the refrain: "Mah Soul is a Witness for Mah Lawd." Then the minister would recite the story of Methusalem, and the audience would sing the refrain, then came the stories of Samson and Daniel in turn, each followed by the refrain from the "seekers." By the time the song was finished they were all singing and marching around the church, for they had all "got religion." "You have no idea how wild these revivals get," said Mr. Robertson. Evidently, black folk can get excited over religion as white folks can over a basketball tournament.

Before giving his last group, the singer did a very graceful thing. He sang a song in honor of the Master Home-maker of Crow Wing county—Mrs. A. F. Claus. The song was "I Pass by Your Window." Mrs. Claus gracefully acknowledged the compliment by saying she had never felt so honored in her life. Mrs. Claus and four other rural friends were the guests of the president, Mrs. A. J. Quinn.

Mr. Robertson called his last group "Songs of Gay People." It contained a Russian folk-song taught him by the court singer of the Czar. He said that these songs couldn't be bought, but he had learned it from manuscript. The Russians had many of these gypsy folk-songs that have never been published. One wonders if they still sing them or if they have gone with the old regime.

Two charming poems by A. A. Milne, "Missy" and "Vespers" and a Maesfield poem reciting the story of the channel boats are also worthy of mention among those constituting the formal part of his very informal program. But the delightful part of the program was his generous response to the spontaneous applause. He gave: "Jersey Cow," "Old Man River," "Bon Jour Ma Belle," "Water Boy," and declared that he could stay and sing all night were it not for the fear of tiring his audience.

Some expressed a desire for an aria just to show what he could do with his voice and he promised to sing one the next time he came. "This is marvellous," he said to the reviewer. "I came to Brainerd not knowing one thing about it—not knowing what kind of an approach to make and you seem to like every thing I do—I feel that you are all my friends. I never got such a response from a strange audience."

TWO IN MUNICIPAL COURT

William Heikkinen and Uno Orevala Plead Guilty to Charge of Drunkenness

William Heikkinen and Uno Orevala, Brainerd men, were arraigned before Judge J. H. Warner in municipal court this morning on the charge of drunkenness. They were picked up by police officers yesterday. Both pleaded guilty to the charge and each was given the sentence of ten days in the city jail or a fine of $10. Heikkinen was given a stay of sentence of two days.

Chips Fall Where They May; Fracture Man's Skull

Dodgeville, Wis., March 16.—(UP)—Henry Mellum, 54, was in the hospital here today showing no sympathy with the familiar counsel to "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may." Mellum was sawing wood with a power saw. Chips from a post which he pushed against the blade were hurled at his head, fracturing the skull. Surgeons removed pieces of the wood imbedded in his head.

INQUEST VERDICT, ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Funeral Services Tomorrow for Harry Carlson, Ironton, Victim of Electrocutation

CONTACTS LIVE WIRE

Is Survived by Wife and Three Children; Was Raised on a Farm Near Ironton

Masonic funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Harry Carlson, 28, of Ironton, who met death Saturday by electrocution after coming in contact with a live wire. A coroner's inquest held Saturday afternoon by Albert Humble of Crosby, deputy coroner, gave the verdict of accidental death.

The accident occurred Saturday morning at 11:15 o'clock when Carlson climbed a pole on the line between the Mahanomen and Morocco mines to test the line. He was the first man up the pole and must of climbed faster than he thought for he met instant death when his head came in contact with a live wire at the top of the pole. Previous to the accident Carlson was sent to pull a switch at the Morocco mine. He made a mistake and fixed one at the Milford mine. He reported at the Ironton sub-station that he had fixed the switch at the Morocco mines.

He then went with several others to test the line between the Morocco mine (where he thought he had fixed the switch) and the Mahanomen mine. Mr. Carlson is survived by his wife and three children. He was raised on a farm near Ironton.

MAIL TRUCK DRIVER THINKS OFFICER A BANDIT, DEPUTY THINKS DRIVER, RUMMER

Wilmington, N. C., March 16.—(UP)—Killing of a United States mail truck driver and a deputy sheriff in a gun battle in which each mistook the identity of the other was under inquiry today.

Leopold Roberts, the driver, had started his regular trip Saturday night to carry the mail from Goldsboro to Wilmington. He had complained previously to postal authorities of attempts to hold up the truck, and said he would defend the mail at all costs.

Deputy Sheriff W. Paul Starling, meanwhile, had learned that an attempt to run a load of liquor into Wilmington would be made Sunday. Smith creek bridge, one mile north of and stationed himself with his posse at Wilmington.

As the mail truck approached, he stepped out into the glare of the headlights. Roberts started shooting, and Starling returned the fire. The other deputies joined in, killing Roberts, but the driver's bullets had already hit Starling.

Three young Wilmington girls were found to be in the truck, but were uninjured. One of them, Elizabeth Hines, said she was driving because Roberts had complained of a headache. It was said Roberts had often carried passengers with him.

16 PEAT FIRES ARE SMOULDERING

None of Them Are Dangerous But Vary in Size; Rhodes Issues Warning to Settlers

Sixteen peat fires, none of them dangerous, were smouldering today in this district. The fires are scattered over four county and vary in size from a few acres to between 200 and 300 acres.

"The situation is not alarming, but dry weather may make trouble later," Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes said this afternoon.

At the present time the state is allowing no funds for the extinguishing of these fires.

Mr. Rhodes said that settlers should be warned that they must be careful about fires despite the little moisture that there is now. "People should be sure that fires are entirely extinguished before they leave them," Mr. Rhodes added.

BOLD RUM RUNNING ATTEMPT FAILS; LOSS TO SMUGGLERS HEAVY

New London, Conn., March 16.—(UP)—One of the boldest rum running attempts on record—an effort to land two cargoes of liquor at Croton, under the very nose of the coast guard—were failures today costing the smugglers several hundred thousand dollars.

Two rum boats, the trawler Notus, an old offender, and the speedboat 605-H, sought Sunday to land cargoes of 800 and 1,065 sacks of liquor, respectively, on the conspicuous dock of Hotel Griswold, across New London harbor from the coast guard base. The $50,000 cargo of the trawler and crew of three were seized by the coast guard patrol boat CG-212. The CG-808 rescued the four-man crew of the speedboat before it sank.

RUDY SINGS BLUES IN COURT ANSWER

WHITE HAired LADY SAID SHE SAVED VALLE FROM KILLING SELF OVER GIRL

New York, March 16.—(UP)—Charging insanity and "weird and incredible manner" in the complaint, attorneys for Rudy Valle today filed in supreme court a motion for dismissal of a $25,000 slander suit instituted by Pauline Klemp, 71.

Miss Klemp, in her suit, said she saw Valle give $100 to a girl in a New York bank. She asserted she then heard him say:

"This is the last money you will ever get from me. I am going to commit suicide."

Miss Klemp said she followed Valle to the street, begged him not to take his life, gave him a crucifix and accompanied him to his apartment building where she told employees to watch him.

Subsequently, she charged he "repeatedly" sang in public:

"Pauline Klemp saved my life and spared my soul. Pauline Klemp, I love you. Pauline Klemp, I want to marry you, and if you refuse you are a hypocrite."

Miss Klemp is white-haired and small. She came into court today garbed in black, and said she was a lay member of the "third order of St. Francis" with the religious name of "Sister Madeline Elizabeth."

The court gave Miss Klemp's attorney until Wednesday to file a brief opposing today's dismissal motion.

Consider Milk When Planning Your Lenten Menus

By CAROLINE B. KING

ACCORDING to Clarence W. Lieb, M.A., M.D., we are, as a nation, using only about one-half of the most important food product we have. Milk, says this eminent authority, should be served with far greater frequency than it is for it is the most valuable of all foods.

With this thought in mind would it not be well to consider milk very largely when planning Lenten menus? There are so many delicious hearty dishes to take the place of meat most acceptably, which are based on good, wholesome, nutritious milk.

Occasionally milk is combined with cheese or eggs or a vegetable for additional deliciousness and food value. Eggs a la King is one of the most acceptable of these combinations for it is doubly rich in nutritional content—allow 1½ eggs to each serving—hard cook these and set aside until required.

For six eggs, stir together over the fire, three tablespoonfuls of butter and three of flour, when bubbling add 2 cupfuls of rich milk and cook over hot water to a smooth sauce. Then add one green pepper which has been cut in ¼ inch pieces and allowed to stand ten minutes in boiling water, and one pint also cut in small pieces. Simmer over hot water without stirring five to seven minutes, then add the eggs quartered, and if desired, half a cupful of canned mushrooms. Season tastily with salt, pepper and paprika and serve on freshly made toast points. Garnish with parsley and serve hot.

For variety arrange the eggs and sauce in a baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese and bake ten minutes.

JAIL LAKE

Those taking dinner with the C. E. Glover family Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Glover and family and Grandma Glover.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zaske and two children, also Hazel, Lelia, Isabel, Glorine and Evelyn Glover called on the A. E. Johnson family Sunday afternoon.

A party was given for the young folks at the Leon Glover home Saturday evening. All played games after which a delicious lunch was served.

Leon Glover and son Richard called at the Anderson home on business Sunday.

We are sorry to hear Richard Anderson hasn't improved any in health.

The Ladies Four Corners Benevolent society met last Wednesday with Mrs. Wm. Huffman. Work was done for the society. A lovely dinner was served at noon and a lunch at 4 o'clock. All the members were present except one, Mrs. B. Bangston who was sick. There were three visitors, Mrs. N. Anderson, Mrs. John Westfall and Dolores Moulster. A nice time was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Glenn Glover. All members try and come.

Mrs. Wm. Huffman was taken suddenly ill Thursday night. She is some better at this writing.

Glorie Glover stayed Thursday night with her cousin Isabel Glover.

Piles All Gone

Without Slices or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Slices and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 990 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

Stop a Cold in 12 Hours!

It's courting danger to let a cold go 24 hours without treatment; 12 hours can now see the end of a cold if you'll take McKesson's Darol.

Darol is the new type treatment for colds and headaches that acts with new speed and effectiveness. Changes the system from an acid condition to alkaline condition, in which cold and gripe germs do not thrive.

Taken in time, it will check a cold in 6 hours and drive it completely out of the system in 12! Thus, with Darol you avoid the great danger of half-cured colds. Two tablets every 3 hours with a full glass of water does the work. No bad effects on heart or stomach. Unequaled also for the relief of neuralgia and neuritis. Get Darol today and get Science's modern remedy for colds and headaches. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell Darol on a money-back guarantee. RUDY SINGS BLUES IN COURT ANSWER

WHITE HAIR LADY SAID SHE SAVED VALLEE FROM KILLING SELF OVER GIRL

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Charging insufficiency and "weird and incredible manner" in the complaint, attorneys for Rudy Vallee today filed in supreme court a motion for dismissal of a $25,000 slander suit instituted by Pauline Klemp, 71.

Miss Klemp, in her suit, said she saw Vallee give $100 to a girl in a New York bank. She asserted she then heard him say:

"This is the last money you will ever get from me. I am going to commit suicide."

Miss Klemp said she followed Vallee to the street, begged him not to take his life, gave him a crucifix and accompanied him to his apartment building where she told employees to watch him.

Subsequently, she charged he "repeatedly" sang in public:

"Pauline Klemp saved my life and spared my soul. Pauline Klemp, I love you. Pauline Klemp, I want to marry you, and if you refuse you are a hypocrite."

Miss Klemp is white-haired and small. She came into court today garbed in black, and said she was a lay member of the "third order of St. Francis" with the religious name of "Sister Madeline Elizabeth."

The court gave Miss Klemp's attorney until Wednesday to file a brief opposing today's dismissal motion.

Consider Milk When Planning Your Lenten Menus

By CAROLINE B. KING

ACCORDING to Clarence W. Lieb, M.A., M.D., we are, as a nation, using only about one-half of the most important food product we have. Milk, says this eminent authority, should be served with far greater frequency than it is for it is the most valuable of all foods.

With this thought in mind would it not be well to consider milk very largely when planning Lenten menus? There are so many delicious hearty dishes to take the place of meat most acceptably, which are based on good, wholesome, nutritious milk.

Occasionally milk is combined with cheese or eggs or a vegetable for additional deliciousness and food value. Eggs a la King is one of the most acceptable of these combinations for it is doubly rich in nutritional content—allow 1½ eggs to each serving—hard cook these and set aside until required.

For six eggs, stir together over the fire, 3 tablespoons of butter and three of flour, when bubbling add 2 cups of rich milk and cook over hot water to a smooth sauce. Then add one green pepper which has been cut in ¼ inch pieces and allowed to stand ten minutes in boiling water, and one plum tomato also cut in small pieces. Simmer over hot water without stirring five to seven minutes, then add the eggs quartered, and if desired, half a cupful of canned mushrooms. Season tastily with salt, pepper and paprika and serve on freshly made toast points. Garnish with parsley and serve hot.

For variety arrange the eggs and sauce in a baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese and bake ten minutes.

THERE WILL BE PROFIT IN POULTRY THIS YEAR

Because of the low price of eggs and poultry, many poultry raisers will quit the business. Curtailed production means higher prices, and with low-priced feed the producer is sure to profit.

We are offering a dandy 5 acre tract, partly timbered, located 3 blocks from West Brainerd school, where city water and lights are obtainable. The soil is perfect for poultry farming. Priced for quick sale at
